For the entire series, the average weight is between about 6.5g and 7.5g, but with occasional pieces in the 4g to 6g range, and as heavy as 10.5g. The Coorg War was fought between the British East India Company and the State of Coorg in 1834, after which it became a province of British India. In 1837, a major insurrection broke out in the western part of the province instigated by the Tulu-speaking Gowda farmers which was finally quelled after a lengthy drawn-out operation. The Kodava chieftains who had largely remained impervious to nationalist sentiment assisted the British with men, money and logistics, and were rewarded with land grants, titles and the Coorg medal which has English text on it. This medal is uniface with only Persian text and it is uncertain which side and in which conflict it was issued in.

This is believed to be a unique example of this unusual variation, the only specimen recorded by G. Singh for his work on the coinage of Amritsar.

1871. SIKH EMPIRE: AR nanakshahi rupee (11.01g), Amritsar, VS1883, KM-20.1, Herrli-01.07.04, G. Singh-50.01, without the alif of the city name amritsar, as if the die sinker confused the letter "ee" of sree with the alif of the city name, lovely EF, RRR $500 - 700

1873. SIKH EMPIRE: AR nanakshahi rupee (11.12g), Amritsar, VS[18]65 (sic), KM-21.1, Herrli-01.10.04, VS1884 series, error date, perhaps intended for VS[18]85, but the engraver inadvertently cut "6" instead of "8", bold EF, RR $500 - 600

1874. SIKH EMPIRE: AR nanakshahi rupee (11.11g), Amritsar, VS[18]82, KM-21.1, Herrli-01.10.04, VS1884 series, error date, either intended for VS1886 with retrograde "6" or VS1892 with the "9" inadvertently replaced by "8", bold EF, RR $300 - 400

1875. SIKH EMPIRE: AR rupee (11.05g), Amritsar, VS[18]99, KM-21.1, Herrli-01.10.04, VS1885 series, lustrous, choice AU $80 - 100

1880. SIKH EMPIRE: AR nanakshahi rupee, Amritsar, VS11900 (error for 1900), KM-22.6, Herrli-01.12.04, VS1885 series, NGC graded AU53, RR $150 - 200

It is also possible that the engraver took a VS1900 obverse die, with the two "zero's" vertical as is normal for that year, intending to alter the date to VS1901, but inadvertently engraved the "1" to the left instead of to the right.

1881. SIKH EMPIRE: AR rupee (11.09g), Amritsar, VS19001 (for 1901), KM-22.6, Herrli-01.12.04, VS1885 series, chattrra in obverse center, traces of original luster, EF-AU $120 - 160

1882. SIKH EMPIRE: AR rupee (11.15g), Amritsar, VS1902 (1845), KM-22.8, Herrli-01.12.04, VS1885 series, actual date on obverse, pataka (pennant) in obverse center, rare subtype, EF, R $200 - 300

1883. SIKH EMPIRE: AR rupee (11.10g), Amritsar, VS1904, KM-22.9, Herrli-01.12.04, VS1885 series, Gurmukhi word for "state" in obverse center, VF-EF $80 - 100

1884. SIKH EMPIRE: AR nanakshahi rupee (11.03g), Amritsar, VS1906, KM-22.10, Herrli-01.12.04, Gujral-65.03 (this piece), VS1885 series, 1 small testmark, lovely bold strike, choice VF, RRR $1,000 - 1,400

The British annexation of the Sikh Empire concluded on 29 March 1849, but the year VS1906 did not commence until 28 April 1849. It is likely that the 1906 dies were produced in advance, and for whatever reasons, used for the last coinage of the previous year. Rupees of Amritsar dated VS1905 are rare, and 1906 extremely rare. The chattrra form on this piece was used only in 1905 & 1906, quite different from the form used in VS1899-1901, and never in 1902, so that it would seem improbable that the "6" of the date was a retrograde "2".

1885. SIKH EMPIRE: AE paisa (9.38g), Kashmir, VS189x, KM—, Gobindshahi legend, pipal leaf in center / date above mint (final digit either 1, 2, 3 or 4), twin leaves below, some discoloration, VF, RRR $120 - 160

Reverse similar to Herrli-06.100.11, but different obverse.

1886. SIKH EMPIRE: AR rupee (10.79g), Kashmir, VS1901, KM-52.2, Herrli-06.51.04, Star of David hexagram symbol in the obverse field, unrecorded by Herrli and not seen in recent sales, possibly the first known example of this variety, lovely strike, some minor porosity on the reverse, bold VF-EF, RRR $200 - 300

1902. SIKH EMPIRE: Bharpur Singh, 1847-1863, AR nazarana rupee (10.80g), Nabha, VS1907, KM-1.2var, struck on broad thin flan for presentation purposes, as Herrli-15.03.04, but in the name of Ahmad Shah Durrani, with the name just nabha rather than nabha kanal as on other coins of Nabha struck from VS1893 onwards (1836), the year that the Nabha obverse regular coins switched from citing Ahmad Shah Durrani to Guru Gobindshah, EF, RRR $2,000 - 2,400

Nabha changed the obverse from Ahmad Shah to Gobinshah in VS1893 (1836), which was retained on all coinage until their last issues in VS1931 (1874), with the exception of this one issue restoring the name of Ahmad Shah, as was still retained by most of the other Cis-Sutlej states, such as Patiala and Maler Kotla. The Sikh Empire was dissolved in VS1906 (1849) by the British forces, and it is conceivable that Bharpur Singh's administration felt more secure abandoning the Sikh inscription, but for reasons we have not been able to determine, restored the Sikh text later in the same year.

1903. SIKH EMPIRE: AR rupee (8.23g), Peshawar, VS1893//1892, KM-98.2, Herlli-13.02.04, gorgeous strike, one of the finest we have seen, EF, RRR $400 - 600

Although it is not surprising that a die dated VS1892 would still be used during 1893, it is extremely rare for the Sikh coinage of Peshawar, and we have not traced any other examples with mismatched dates. The use of mismatched dates was relatively common at the same time for the Barakzay coinage of Kabul.

1904. SIKH EMPIRE: AR rupee (10.78g), Derajat, AH1247, KM-373, Herlli-07.01.04, fine style, lovely VF-EF $100 - 140

Very little has been known about the tin series until Dr. Stevens' book on Bombay, which is a most welcome addition to numismatic libraries. Paul Stevens has ascertained that these coins were tin up to 1717. From 1740 to 1770 the alloy was changed to one called tutenag, which was mostly zinc, imported by the East India Company from China.
