862. IRAN: Nasir al-Din Shah, 1848-1896, AR 5000 dinars, Tehran, AH1297, KM-914, plain edge, blazing prooflike surfaces, dappled golden toning, possibly the finest known example of the Tehran mint, NGC graded MS63 PL $2,500 - 3,500

This magnificent example is as close to a true proof that could have been manufactured at the Tehran mint, using equipment newly imported from Europe. The details of the lion's face and beard are extraordinarily sharp, and there is a trace of cameo surface, especially on the obverse. The inscription on the reverse is also incredibly sharp, despite a trace of double-striking most visible in the ruler's name, as one might expect on an early strike from newly acquired dies. There also exists a proof or specimen version believed to have been struck at the Brussels mint, of which a specimen sold by Heritage in 2014 for $20,000 (Auction 3033, Lot 23326). The Brussels type can be readily distinguished by the position of the ray extending from the sun-face through the lion's tail, thinner and closer to the tip of the tail on the Tehran strike, thicker and further from the tip of the tail on the Brussels type. The Brussels type also has three rays emerging to the left of the lion's head, whereas there are none there on the Tehran piece. The Brussels rays end with a blunt point, whereas Tehran rays are relatively sharp at the edge. Finally, the bottom folds of the wreath's ribbon below the lion is very different. This piece is clearly the Tehran mint product, perhaps a specimen strike from the Tehran mint. It is unquestionably superior to even the finest regular examples of the same type and year.

863. IRAN: Nasir al-Din Shah, 1848-1896, AR 5000 dinars, Tehran, AH1313, KM-M11, commemorative for Nasir al-Din' 50th Year as Shah, lightly gilt, probably once in a bezel or something similar, obverse scratched, Fine $150 - 200

Nasir al-Din was assassinated a few weeks before the 50th anniversary celebration was to have taken place.

World Coins

864. IRAN: Nasir al-Din Shah, 1848-1896, AV 5000 dinars (1.35g), Tehran, ND, KM-927, lovely strike, BU, RR, ex Stephen Album Auction 15, Lot 1759 (sold for $1300) $850 - 1,000

Die-breaks are visible on both sides, suggesting that the dies broke rather quickly and few were struck.

865. IRAN: Nasir al-Din Shah, 1848-1896, AV 5000 dinars (1.46g), Tehran, AH1305, KM-927, date divided with "1" to left of bust, "35" to right (without central pellet for "0"), UNC, R $200 - 250

866. IRAN: Nasir al-Din Shah, 1848-1896, AV toman (2.88g), Tehran, AH1301, KM-933, date cut as "111301" by careless engraver, EF-AU, S $220 - 280

867. IRAN: Nasir al-Din Shah, 1848-1896, AV toman (2.85g), Tehran, AH1313, KM-933, choice AU, S $275 - 325

This is not KM-938, which should be a mule with reverse of type KM-936, distinguished by the addition of "sahebqeran" in the reverse legend, incorrectly illustrated in KM.

868. IRAN: Muzaffar al-Din Shah, 1896-1907, AR 5000 dinars, AH1320, KM-976, Dav-288, struck at St. Petersburg, Russia, NGC graded MS63 $100 - 150

869. IRAN: Muzaffar al-Din Shah, 1896-1907, AR 2000 dinars, AH13223 (sic), KM-979, error date, should be 1323, VF $100 - 125

On July 1st, 1994, a second som currency was introduced at a rate of 1 new som = 1,000 old som. Two series of coins have been issued for the second som. They can normally be distinguished by the script used for the Uzbek language. The first series was written in Cyrillic script, while the second series is written in Latin script. These 'pattern' coins have O'zbekiston Respublikasi around national arms on each obverse, which differs from circulation coinage which has O'zbekiston Markaziy Banki around in Latin script. This 'pattern' series is unusual in that they are in the first series of the second som, but not in the Cyrillic script. This is the first set of these we have seen on the market.

After the exposure of the Congo atrocities by E.D. Morel and Roger Casement, King Leopold II ceded his Independent State to Belgium in 1908. His CHEFFERIE INDIGENE medals were continued with modified designs under Belgian administration. This is a rare medal, seldom appearing at auction, and this is a sharply struck example with die polish marks and much original luster. They are normally found mounted. This is the finest example offered in a public sale in recent years.

Following the defeat of Egyptian forces in the Anglo-Egyptian War of 1882, Great Britain occupied the former Ottoman province, though the latter empire still claimed suzerainty even after Egypt was declared a British protectorate in 1914. In order to formally reinstate their influence in the region, Ottoman forces attacked British forces in Egypt the following year, with powers during the first world war starting to align themselves. This particular medal was a jab by Goetz at Sir Edward Grey, then British Foreign Secretary, urging him to stand up to the rising unrest against the British occupation of the region.
