This lovely Art Deco type, known as the "Bazor" after its designer, Lucien Georges Bazor, was intended to implement the 24 June 1928 Monetary Law and restore France to the Gold Standard in its original form. The Bazor was thus meant to be a circulating coin whose weight and fineness were calculated from values specified in the 1928 Act. However, most were never put into circulation. Instead, they were remelted after France was forced into another franc devaluation in October 1936 and thus forced to leave the gold exchange standard.

The countermark applied on this coin is now regarded as marking different sequences of issue, with the latest probably being a wheat grain ear mark and letter 'l' and numeral '1'. The 'l' reflects the quality of the gold, and the '1' indicates it was validated at Belgrade. This newer research is in the article Yugoslav Countermarks on Austro-Hungarian Gold Coins by Aleksander N. Brzic, from the American Journal of Numismatics.

Julius Popper (1857-93) was a Romanian-born adventurer and a central figure in the Tierra del Fuego gold rush in the late 1880's. A mining engineer by trade and a charismatic figure by many accounts, he led an expedition to the Atlantic coast of the remote island in 1886 and discovered gold dust on the beaches of San Sebastián Bay. Aided by the ongoing speculative frenzy, he set up a mining center on the El Páramo Peninsula and saw a respectable yield of 154 lbs of gold in the first year. The mining operation quickly became his own personal fiefdom, complete with its own militia, stamps and gold coins. Nicknamed the "Dictator of Tierra del Fuego", Popper fought off Chilean poachers and feuded with the provincial governors in the local newspaper. His actions also led to the deaths of many indigenous Selk'nam (Ona) people, with one notorious photograph showing him with a rifle in hand, stepping on the corpse of a Selk'nam man. As yields declined in the following years, Popper departed El Páramo for new adventures but died under mysterious circumstances in Buenos Aires in 1893, and his estate was carved up to pay off more than a dozen creditors. Few traces remain of his one-time mining empire except for a small number of these pioneer gold pieces.

In 1890, the German firm of L. Chr. Lauer of Nuremberg issued a series of patterns for Mexico in copper and copper-nickel. Twenty-one designs were struck, all with a common obverse with different reverses for the various states and one commemorating the 80th anniversary of Mexican independence. We would also assume that this coin, part of a similar series of Colombian State types, were produced by Lauer as well at the same time.

1510. COSTA RICA: Republic, AV peso, 1871, KM-116, Fr-16, initials GW, a few toning blotches, two-year type, NGC graded MS62 $400 - 500

According to Richard Lobel, "This was the first piece that I was ever involved with in striking. I did it with Paul Weinstein and Richard Margolis. We based this on the Cuban Souvenir Peso of 1897 which was issued in New York City to raise money for the Cuban Freedom Fighters. We gave money to Alpha 66, one of the militant groups at the Bay of Pigs. Everything went well until the United States Government put a stop to it".

1514. CUBA: Republic, AR souvenir peso, 1965, KM-XM5, plain edge, struck for the Agency for Cuban Numismatics in Exile, NGC graded Proof 65 $150 - 250

1595. UNITED STATES: AR dollar, 1862, Liberty Seated type, low mintage of only 11,540, cleaned, PCGS graded UNC details $1,500 - 2,000

The 1862 silver dollar is just as rare as its low mintage suggests. There was little demand for silver coins during 1862, as the introduction of non-redeemable notes by both North and South during the Civil War drove such pieces from circulation. They remained at a premium to paper currency for the next 14 years, this disparity reaching its apex during 1864, when the paper dollar was worth just half the value of gold or silver coin.

1596. UNITED STATES: AR dollar, 1921, KM-150, Peace dollar, nice luster, particularly on reverse, high relief subtype, Choice AU $300 - 400

While this coin is not an official issue, it is now part of numismatic history that has attained significant status with collectors. When decimal currency was introduced in 1966, collectors were surprised to learn that a one dollar coin was not considered as part of the new lineup. The editor of the Australian Coin Review took up the challenge and conducted a competition among readers. The "Swan Dollar" (more commonly called the Goose Dollar) was the winning entry and the design was forwarded to the relevant Government Department. When the design was rejected, the competition organizers decided to have it privately minted.

The designer and engraver was Edward Hulseman, and the coin was privately produced by H.M. & E.I. Richards of Attleboro, Massachusetts. An obvious error on Hulseman's part was to misspell the denomination as "Hapa Haneri" instead of "Hapa Hanele." Although the coin was a disappointment to the Hawaiians, the cent remained legal tender until 1884 and circulated even later.
